

Senate Bill 1210: Estimated Costs and Timelines for New Service

In compliance with California Senate Bill 1210, SDG&E® is providing average project cost and timeline estimates for typical, new, residential-electric and gas service projects under Electric Rule 16 and Gas Rule 16. These estimates are based on historical data and are intended to help customers plan for upcoming service requests.

Please keep in mind that these figures are planning estimates only—actual costs and timelines may vary depending on your project’s specific requirements and site conditions.

Estimated Project Costs and Timelines:

New Electric Service
Facility Type	Average Minimum Project Cost	Average Maximum Project Cost	Average Estimated Project Timeline (Calendar Days)
Single Family	$1,250	$3,750	61 - 274
Residential Multifamily	$1,700	$12,000	142 - 453
Accessory Dwelling Unit (ADU)	$1,200	$3,700	82 - 266
Mixed-Use Development	$7,500	$29,000	199 - 430

New Gas Service
Facility Type	Average Minimum Project Cost	Average Maximum Project Cost	Average Estimated Project Timeline (Calendar Days)
Single Family	$2,050	$4,250	123 - 455
Residential Multifamily	$2,800	$7,350	277 - 649
Accessory Dwelling Unit (ADU)	$1,950	$3,550	94 - 299
Mixed-Use Development	$8,000	$13,950	477 - 682

Disclaimer:

The above estimated project costs and timelines for the listed facility types are based on historical data from prior projects identified as typical service connections and are provided solely as a general planning guide for new residential gas and electric service. Actual project-specific costs and schedules may vary significantly due to factors, including, but not limited to:

- Service distance and site-specific conditions
- Electric- and gas-demand requirements
- Grid availability and/or pipeline capacity in the project area
- Permitting and inspection timelines
- Equipment relocation
- Underground installation
- Material and equipment availability
- Weather conditions and other unforeseen circumstances
- Taxes and fees
- Applicable refunds, discounts, or allowances (if eligible)

Accordingly, the cost and timeline information presented does not constitute a guarantee or commitment regarding future project costs or completion timelines. All estimates are subject to change without notice.